the Potomac. Special Order No. 163.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC. Camp near Sharpsburg, Md., October 7.

The attention of the officers and soldiers of the Army of the Potomac is called to General Order No. 139, War Department, September 28th, 1862, publishing to the army the President's proclama tion of September 22d. A proclamation of such grave moment to the nation, officially communicated to the army, affords the General command ing an opportunity of defining specifically to the officers and soldiers under his command the relation borne by all persons in the military service of the United States towards the civil authorities of the Government. The Constitution confides to the civil authorities, legislative, judicial and executive, the power and duty of making, expounding and executing the Federal laws. Armed forces are raised and supported simply to sustain the civil authorities and are to be held in strict subordination thereto in all respects. This fundamental rule of our political system is essential to the security of our republican institutions, and should be thoroughly understood and observed by every soldier. The principle upon which, and the objects for which it shall be employed in suppressing the re bellion, must be determined and declared by the civil authorities, and the Chief Executive, who is charged with the administration of national affairs, is the proper and only source through which the views and orders of the Government can be made known to the armies of the nation.

Discussion by officers and soldiers concerning public measures, determined upon and declared by the Government, when carried at all beyond the ordinary temperate and respectful expression of opinion, tend greatly to impair and destroy the discipline and efficiency of the troops by substituting the spirit of political faction for that firm, steady and earnest support of the authority of this Government, which is the highest duty of the American soldier. The remedy for political errors, if any are committed, is to be found only in the action of the people at the polls. In thus calling the attention of this army to the true relation between the soldiers and the Government, the General commanding adverts to an evil against which it has been thought advisable, during our whole history, to guard the armies of the republic, and in so doing he will not be discouraged by any right minded person as casting any reflection upon that loyalty and good conduct which has been so fully illustrated upon so many battlefields. In carrying out all measures of public policy, this army will of course be guided by the same rules of mercy and Christianity that has ever controlled its conduct toward the defenseless.

Kentucky. The Corinth Battle. CORINIH, Miss., Oct. 5.—The correspondence of the St. Louis Democrat says: On the morning of the 3d our outposts were attacked by the enemy's force, about six miles north-east of Corinth, and before 9 o'clock the engagement became general. A herce and sanguinary battle was fought. Our men, under Rosecrans, stood up manfully, and fought with great coolness and bravery; but regiment after regiment, and brigade after brigade poured in upon us, and we were forced slowly backward, fighting desperately. The rebels pushed forward with determined obstinacy, and held every foot of advantage ground. They outflanked our inferior force on the left, and were forming in the rear, and we were obliged to fall back still further, to prevent this movement from being accomplished.

The enemy were now inside of our breastworks, pushing us backward toward the town, when darkness put an end to the fighting for that day. During the day's fight our loss was heavy, but that of the enemy must have largely exceeded ours. Three pieces of the 1st Missouri battery were captured. After having stood for long hours before the enemy's fire, the men were consumed by thirst and subdued by the intense and constant their battery of seven guns was captured. Portent us quietness soon occurred, and it was evident some movement was being made by the The Western sharpshooters, under Col. Burke, were ordered forward as skirmishers to feel the enemy. At half past nine they met them three fourths of a mile in advance of our line of battle if she was likely to be captured, but not to do so advancing rapidly in heavy columns upon the town. Immediately a murderous fire opened on this heavy line, the skirmishers, who slowly began to retire, returning the fire of the enemy with effect. The woods seemed alive with rebels,

In a few moments the engagement became general. Our batteries opened a destructive fire on the exposed ranks of the rebels, mowing them down like grass. The slaughter was frightful, but with unparalleled daring and recklessness they pushed impetuously forward. They charged our works desperately, broke our line of infantry and captured several small fortifications, in which the battery of the 1st Missouri was planted.
